To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to write a letter of recommendation for Sean Ye, a student volunteer who helped work on a few projects for our business.

Utilizing strong programming and graphic design skills, Sean spent a few weeks volunteering his time to design high quality product images and animations for our telecommunications business. The marketing assets are used throughout our marketing materials including our websites, sales brochures, customer presentation decks, and social media channels. Sean also demonstrated strong commitment to his work and shouldered his responsibilities with great maturity.

He came to me about his application to the Onondaga LIT leadership program and I strongly recommend him as a candidate. I believe he will bring great value to your program and will accomplish his work with a similar level of commitment and dedication.

Best Regards,
